

Idaho Volunteer Lawyers Program

The first step in requesting legal assistance from volunteer attorneys through the Idaho Volunteer Lawyers Program (IVLP) is to provide IVLP with basic information about you and your legal request. You can do that by completing the IVLP Applicant Information Form below or call (208) 334-4510 (or 1-800-221-3295). To use the form below, type in your information, then print, sign and return the completed form to IVLP. Our intake coordinator will call you to gather more details of your legal request. IVLP determines if you are eligible for legal assistance by considering your case type, household income, and other specific circumstances.

Please note that acceptance of any case depends on the circumstances of the case and the availability of volunteer attorneys. When can IVLP help? For family law cases, priority is given to matters in which domestic violence or child endangerment are at issue.

We cannot take the following types of cases: cases where the attorney can collect fees, child support collection, criminal issues, defense of child protection cases, defense of protection order cases, enforcement or appeals, paternity cases, Social Security issues, torts, or Workers Compensation.

Funding sources require that we determine the citizenship status of all applicants to the Program. Having citizenship is NOT a requirement for receiving assistance from IVLP. IF you are not a citizen, please submit your form and certify that the information given is true and correct with your signature on the first signature line.
