Rodeo and Baseball Gain Support from Denise Rosen

Denise Rosen of Coeur d'Alene has a passion for rodeo and baseball, giving more than 15 hours each month to her projects. In her own words from the Lawyers Serve Survey:

The contribution of time and resources to the North Idaho Fair & Rodeo Foundation is an investment in the community. The Foundation provides capital improvements to the fair grounds and scholarships for qualified applicants. The fairgrounds is a community gathering place that provides healthy events for families to attend. Adults and children are exposed to agricultural exhibits, animal exhibits and interactive events that they may not otherwise experience.

My other role is as a member of the North Idaho Fair & Rodeo Committee. Selfishly, I love rodeo so it fulfills my need to be around it, but it also provides an opportunity for folks to witness the age old sport of rodeo!

“The other area I support is the Lewiston chapter of the American Legion Baseball. I sponsor a player or coach each year. Participation by the young adults in baseball teaches them many skills for their future while having fun doing it. I mention both of these in response as they all dovetail in to helping promote healthy atmospheres for adults and children to grow and bond.
