¹ These are 18-hole courses that have a higher par than executive courses. The majority of the holes on a standard golf course are par 4s. The remaining holes are a mix of par 3s and par 5s. Many regulation golf courses are known as championship courses, even if they may never host an official championship. They are often par-72 courses. However, this is not an official standard, and championship courses are sometimes par 70 or 71.
